My Epson old HC 8350 was awesome, but it definitely had issues like LCD alignment producing green fringing, slight screen door effect, and only 1080p. The Epson HC 3800 not only features perfect LCD alignment, no screen door effect, but a visible increase in resolution. Watching 4k films at 13' on 125" screen the difference was noticeable.

I have an Epson 8350 projector. I just replaced the lamp with a new one. While I can get the power lights to come on the lamp will not come on so the screen is black. After a few minutes, the red lamp light flashes on. What am I doing wrong or what can I do from here to get the new lamp to work and project on the screen?
